

The Daily Courant.

Thursday, December 10. 1702.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Dec. 9.

Heilbron, December 2.

THere are Advices from the Upper Rhine, which say, That the Elector of Bavaria having in Conversation with General d'Arco, Count Fels, and Baron Harthausen, left it freely to their own Choice, whether they would continue in his Service, or obey the Imperial Avocatoria; they all declar'd, that they would never leave him, while they were in any Condition to do him Service: And that his Highness is so well satisfied with the Assurances they gave him, that he has made the first Velt Marhal of his Army, and taken the other two into his especial Favour. There are Letters likewise which say, That there is no good Understanding at present, between the Elector of Bavaria, and the French Envoy.

Frankfort, Dec. 3. They write from Heilbron, That the Assembly of the Circle of Swabia, is not yet come to any particular Resolutions, by reason of the Absence of several Deputies of the Estates of that Circle; and that the Elector of Bavaria having sent a Plenipotentiary to be present at their Consultations, they refus'd to admit him; which 'tis fear'd will further embroil Matters. The Inhabitants of the Electorate of Ments and Triers, and the adjacent Countries, are very well pleas'd that the Landgrave of Hesse has posted some Troops in Rhinfeld, and that there is a strong Garrison in the Fort of Kats which stands over against that Place; hoping this may hinder the Excursions and Ravages of the Enemy. Bedding and other Necessaries are sent thither from hence; the Magazines at Rhinfeld and St. Goar will be well stor'd; and a great quantity of Oats is bought up in the County of Katzenellebogen, and on the River Loon, for those Magazines. The Troops in the Hondsrug and on the Moselle, are dispos'd into the most convenient Posts to keep in the Enemy's Parties, and streighten Traerbach the closer. Some Regiments of Hussars that lay about Philipsbourg, are order'd by Prince Lewis of Baden, to take Post on the Nohe in the Hondsrug, to strengthen the other Confederate Forces, and to prevent as much as possible, the Enemy's raising further Contributions.

Riga, Nov. 18. The Castle of Notteburg held out 14 days, and sustain'd 3 Storms; so that the Garrison, which at first consisted of 400 Men, was reduc'd to 66, when Colonel Slippenbach, who Commanded in the Place beat a Parley, yet he obtain'd such honourable Terms as by the Custom of War are generally allow'd to Men that defend themselves bravely, viz. To march out through the Breach with his Garrison in Arms, with Colours flying, Drums beating, and 4 Iron Cannon; to be conducted to Nerva by Water. We have Advice, That the Czar of Muscovy has embark'd part of his Artillery on the Lake Lagoda, whence we conjecture that he designs to attack Kexholm, the Fortifications of which place are all of Wood. Collonel Apollof Governour of Nyen, apprehending that that Town would be besieg'd, set it on Fire, and is retir'd into the Castle; General Cronhiort is mov'd towards Finland with the Body of Men that he commands. The Czar has releas'd several that were made Prisoners, and caus'd a Declaration to be dispers'd, importing, That the Disorders and Ravages that have been committed in Livonia, were done without his order, and offering to take the Inhabitants of that Country into his Protection.

P. S. Advice is come, That the Muscovites have taken the Castle of Nyen by Storm, and that 22000 of them are arriv'd within a League and a half of Nerva.
